Cedar Hill
"Modern Burial Park"
Non-Sectarian Perpetual Care
The site, known as Cedar Hill Cemetery, was chosen because of its natural beauty and its proximity to the city. It is conveniently located about one mile east of the Potomac river, on Pennsylvania Avenue, Extension Southeast at the District line. It is far enough removed so that it is not likely to be interfered with by many generations of city growth. The land itself is high and gently rolling, assuring perfect dryness.
An agreeable alternation of open lawn, with groves of handsome trees and shrubbery, combine to make a beautiful rural park so different from the old-time graveyard whose numerous gravestones jar on the visitor's feeling. At Cedar Hill one is reconciled with death and gladdened by the thought of resurrection to eternal life.
The need of a final resting place for those who are near and dear to us does not seem to be an immediate issue. It is hard to imagine our loved ones anywhere but at our side or within call.
And yet the time must inevitably come when they are called away to that permanent rest known as death.
Those who are wise make this preparation years before the need of it, when they can give every phase of the matter careful attention, and can select a location which is suitable as a perpetual resting place for the family.
It has been the aim from the very inception of Cedar Hill to exclude all that is morbid and depressing and provide a beautiful resting place for those who sleep in death. The symbol of Cedar Hill is not grief and death, but hope and life everlasting.

How
Feeds
3

One can of Gorton's Ready-to-Fry Cod Fish Cakes, at 20c, makes 6 large cakes—enough to feed 3 people. That's far less than you would pay for meat. And no trouble to prepare—the preparing's done already—nothing to do but fry.
Packed in enamel-lined cans by the fisher-folk of Gloucester-by-the-sea. Good at any meal. All grocers keep them—ask yours.
